IN CASE OF ERRORS OR INQUIRIES ABOUT YOUR STATEMENT

The Federal Truth in Lending Act requires prompt correction of mistakes identified within your Account Statement.

1. If you want to preserve your rights under the Act, here's what you do if you believe your Account Statement is wrong or need more information about a transaction:
 - a) Write on the Statement or on a separate sheet of paper (you may also call the Credit Union about your inquiry but doing so will not preserve your rights under this law) the following information:
 - i. Your name and account number.
 - ii. A description of the error and an explanation why you believe it is an error. If you only need more information, explain the transaction you are not sure about and, if you wish, you may also request evidence of the transaction such as a copy of the receipt or voucher. Do not send in any documents unless you have a duplicate copy for your own records.
 - iii. The transaction date and dollar amount of the suspected error.
 - b) Send your notice of statement error to the address printed on the front of your statement. Mail as soon as you can, but in any case, early enough to reach the Credit Union within 60 days after the statement was mailed or otherwise delivered to you.
2. The Credit Union must acknowledge all letters pointing out suspected errors within 30 calendar days of receipt, unless the Credit Union is able to correct your statement during those 30 days. Within 90 days of receiving your letter, the Credit Union must either correct the error or provide an explanation as to why the Credit Union believes the statement was correct. Once the Credit Union has explained the statements, the Credit Union has no further obligation to investigate even if you still believe that there is an error, except as provided in paragraph 5 below.
3. After the Credit Union has been notified, neither the Credit Union, an attorney nor a collection agency may send you collection letters or take other collection action with respect to the amount in dispute, but periodic statements may be sent to you, and the disputed amount can be applied against your credit limit. You cannot be threatened with damage to your credit rating or sued for the amount in question nor can the disputed amount be reported to a credit bureau or to other creditors as delinquent until the Credit Union has answered your inquiry. However, you do remain obligated to pay the parts of your outstanding balance not in dispute.
4. If it is determined that the Credit Union made a mistake on your statement, you will not have to pay any finance charges on any disputed amount. If it turns out that the Credit Union did not make an error on your statement, you will be responsible and will have to pay the finance charges on the disputed amount, and you will have to make up any missed minimum or required payments on the disputed amount. Unless you have agreed that your statement was correct, the Credit Union must send you written notification of what you owe.
5. If the Credit Union's explanation does not satisfy you and you notify the Credit Union in writing within 10 days after you have received our explanation that you are still refusing to pay the disputed amount, the Credit Union may report you to all credit bureaus and other creditors and can pursue regular collection procedures, but the Credit Union must also report that you think you do not owe the money, and the Credit Union must let you know to whom such reports were made. Once the dispute has been resolved between you and the Credit Union, the Credit Union must notify those to whom the Credit Union reported you as delinquent of the subsequent resolution.
6. If the Credit Union does not follow these rules, the Credit Union is not allowed to collect the first $50.00 of the disputed amount and the finance charges, even if the statement turns out to be correct.
